NEW COORDINATOR . . .

Joan Bernhardt MT (ASCP) of Country Club Hills has been named education coordinator for the clinical laboratories department at St. James Hospital, Chicago Heights. She will coordinate clinical and theory classes for GSU's medical technology students and direct in-service education for the hospital's laboratory personnel.

NEW BPA DIVISION CHAIRPERSONS . . . BPA Dean Robert Milam has announced the appointments of three new BPA Division Chairpersons. They are: Dale Max, Acting Chairperson, Accounting/Finance; James Buckenmyer, Chairperson, Management and Administrative Science; and Paul Green, Chairperson and Director of the Institute for Public Policy and Administration, Public Administration. The appointments are effective September 1, 1980.

GSU'S STUDIO THEATRE . . . will present Strindberg's "Miss Julie" in the University Theatre at 8 p.m., Saturday, August 16, and at 2 p.m., Sunday, August 17. The play, written in the late nineteenth century, deals with conflicts that are still alive today between men and women and the various classes of society. Admission is free. For information and reservations, call x2119 or 2458.

A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT . . . It's good to be home! And home I am, resting and recuperating. My thanks to all who sent me so many cards which brightened my often dull and dreary days in the hospital.

Originally I had hoped to be ready by this time for short visits to my office. Unfortunately, my rest and recuperation must continue for a while.

During the next week or two, however, I will be asking a few persons to drop in for some brief "business sessions." Otherwise, on doctor's orders, I am to rest.

Once again, my thanks for your concern during the past month. It won't be long now before, thank God, I will be able to communicate with you face-to-face. I assure you, I look forward to that pleasure with no little impatience.

-- Leo Goodman-Hodgins

TRIPLE-HEADER OUTDOOR FOLKFEST . . . Three popular Chicago-area musical attractions will join forces in an Outdoor Folkfest to end GSU's summer season of entertainment Friday, August 15, at 8 p.m. (In the event of rain, the Folkfest will be at 8 p.m., Sunday, August 17, outdoors or indoors.) Buck's Stove and Range Company, a Bluegrass/Newgrass/quartet; Amy Levin, guitarist/vocalist; and Jump'n In The Saddle Band, a six-member country-western group will perform in the Outdoor Theatre on the north side of the University building. For ticket information, call x2464.

NEW PUBLICATIONS . . . David Burgest (above) has a series of publications forthcoming in the fall of 1980 and early 1981. They include: "Black Awareness and Authentic Black/Black Relations" in Contemporary Black Thought: Alternative Analysis in Behavioral Science, edited by Molefi Kete Asante and Abdulai S. Vandi (Sage Publisher, September, 1980); "Theory of White Supremacy/Black Oppression" in Black Books Bulletin Journal, September, 1980; co-authored with Joanna Bowers, "Toward Authentic Interpersonal Relations: Black Male/Black Female Relationships," in Black Male/Female Relationship Journal, September & December, 1980; "Publish or Perish: Some Major Considerations for Black Educators" in the February, 1981 issue of The Black Scholar; and, Social Work Practice With Minorities, (Scarecrow Press: Edited) Winter, 1981. Burgest begins a one-year sabbatical leave this month. He will be teaching at the University of Nairobi, Kenya, East Africa.

PUBLISHED . . . HARRIET GROSS (CAS) is the author of an article entitled "Dual Career Couples Who Live Apart: Two Types" which will appear in the August, 1980 issue of Journal of Marriage and The Family.

NEW PARKING DECALS . . . should be available in the Cashier's Office and Bookstore next week. Current decals will expire August 23. The cost of a decal for Fall Trimester will be $11; an annual decal is $30.00.

THE "TRY'S" OF PERSONNEL . . . Regarding the recent employee suggestion that a trash receptacle be placed in Parking Lot C, Dorothy Sherman of the Personnel Office reports that after one week, PPO found only two old rugs therein . . . The next day the $35 receptacle itself had disappeared. SIGH!

THE AMERICAN FAMILY . . . will be the focus of a series of free films, lectures and interviews at GSU during August. The public is invited. Paul Wilkes, author and producer of the book and film series, "Six American Families," will lecture Wednesday, August 20, at 7:30 p.m. in Engbretson Hall. A student slide presentation of "More American Families" will be presented as a finale on Wednesday, August 27, at 7:30 p.m. in the University's media dome. See the Events page in this issue for individual film listings. The documentary film series depicts the unrehearsed scenes of everyday life for many American families. For more information, call x2420.

LOST . . . One pair of prescription bifocal glasses in a black vinyl case. If found, please contact UR, x2122.

GSUings . . . LOU MULE (CAS) attending the 7th North American Prairie Conference in Springfield, Missouri recently. The sessions included field trips to Missouri tall-grass prairies and cedar glades in the sun and 105° temperatures . . . BOB JAYNES (UR) being appointed to a three-year term on the Illinois College Relations Conference (ICRC) Board for 1980-83 . . . WILMA COOPER (UL) teaching a toy making class at Rich East High School, beginning September 18. GSUers who have seen examples of the stuffed animals she has made may be interested in registering for the class. Registration is September 3, 4, and 8, at Rich East. Some sewing experience is needed. For more info, call her at x2218. . . Our condolences to BOB (SHP) and MARY LOU CORNESKY (formerly SP&CE) on the death of his father, who died last Friday in Florida.

BEWARE . . . GSU has learned that some individuals have been improperly identifying themselves over the phone as being from Governors State University, usually the Division of Psychology, and asking questions of a highly personal nature. Governors State University has not authorized any telephone surveys in its name or in the name of its Division of Psychology. People who are contacted are advised to refuse to give any answers to such persons. When University students are authorized to conduct surveys, they first send a letter or a card to individuals identifying themselves, their course, their instructor's name, a University telephone number, and the nature and reasons of such a survey. Individuals receiving such a request by mail should feel free to call to check the information given before answering any questions.

GSU CAMPUS HOSTS THE 'REAL' ENERGY
INDEPENDENCE FAIR

Beth and Dan Halacy of Golden, Colorado will show how to make solar stoves and how to use them during Fair activities, August 22-25.

The excitement which kicked off at the Hantack House last week with the preparation for the erection of Jene Highstein's "Flying Saucer" sculpture continues to build. Twenty-one CETA trainees, four new full time solar trainers, and the University Energy Group are all at work ordering, building, evaluating, and testing equipment and other alternative energy contraptions that will be part of the 'Real' Energy Independence Fair at GSU, August 22-25.

According to Bethe Hagens, University Professor at GSU and a Fair coordinator, "The Fair is really the first of its kind anywhere, with operating low-cost solar and other renewable energy inventions actually powering the event itself." Included will be an array of 16 solar ovens along with assorted boilers, fryers, and steamers which will cook a good portion of food for the masses. A small photo cell factory will be in operation, producing electric power for its own soldering irons and putting the excess into the Fair's "mini-utility." A wind electric system is being installed especially for the event. Its power will be stored as back-up. Greenhouses, model wall sections, a giant solar balloon, some modest solar weapons, and dozens of home solar items are all in the makings. This event promises to be one of the more interesting energy extravaganzas likely to occur anywhere.

Those participating can: learn how to build, operate and modify a solar oven; learn the 2000-year history of solar architecture; find out how to compost home food garbage and turn it into potting soil with earthworms; see five or six different kinds of insulating window coverings that will save you substantial dollars on summer cooling and winter heating; see how to attach a solar water heater to your roof; play group games; help to build a small solar balloon; boil water with a fresnel lens. In short, participants will have the opportunity to "play" with some of the simple yet surprisingly powerful solar tools in this "campground to end all campgrounds."

Even if it's cloudy, solar skeptics will be surprised to find how much of the Fair's demonstrations remain up and running. Joe Deahl will be driving his electric (photovoltaic-powered) car (shown on this page), rain or shine. He may get wet, but those photocells keep generating power even in the most diffuse light. Non-believers should attend and see for themselves!

The Fair admission price is just $2 per day, with children under age 10 admitted free. Highlights such as the Flea Market, Energy Inventors Round-up, and the Parade of Alternative Bikes and Vehicles will punctuate each day's routine. Schedules are posted throughout the University. Contact Mark Payne, Office of Special Programs, x2139, for details.
